

We also know that a range of “more commodity like sensors” have been launched in China and that there is now a “data set available on the market” which I’ll assume is some form of product or rental arrangement. Obviously there’s a couple of assumptions here but these could be clarified with a few questions. I’ve marked on these changes to the map in figure 170.

Figure 170 — Adding China and the data set