

The CRM boxes have the same connections to other components. There's no obvious change of meaning. Now, consider an Atlas. Let me shift Australia and put it next to the UK. Does that change the meaning of the Atlas? Well, of course it does. In a map, the space has meaning. For our systems diagram to be a map then all the space (see figure 147c) would have to mean something and you couldn't just shift a box without changing the meaning.

Figure 147c — Space has meaning.